P. R. R. AND CITY AGREE ON SEWER

Railroad Grants Right-of-Way; Project to Start in Fall

City Engineer F. S. Barkhoff disclosed to city council last night that the Pennsylvania railroad had finally come through with the right-of-way agreement for the city's proposed storm water sewer project in the S. Broadway and S. Ellsworth ave. area.

Condemnation proceedings are under way to secure a right-of-way for the sewer through the Harry Matz and B. Fisher property on S. Ellsworth ave., since the property owners allegedly have refused to allow the sewer to pass through a portion of their land.

Start Sewer Job in Fall

The engineer said, however, that the sewer job is to start in the fall and that, in the meantime, work would continue on the street paving projects. WPA workers at the present are busy on Mound st. and Brooklyn ave., and are expected to open up the W. Seventh st. paving job next week.

It will be several weeks before the WPA sidewalk project will be released, Barkhoff said.

The resurfacing of Salem's streets, which were badly damaged by severe winter weather, is expected to get under way Friday morning, according to Service Director Charles

CAPITAL, LABOR AID SOUGHT IN ARMS PROGRAM

Government Calls on Both To Unite for Preparedness

WANTS NO STRIKES, NO MILLIONAIRES

FDR Also Warns Against Unloading New Deal Legislation

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 22.—The government called on capital and labor to "do their bit" today in the national preparedness drive, relying on both to seek no advantages from the rearmament program.

At the same time President Roosevelt counseled against jettisoning the New Deal's social and labor legislation under the pressure of defense considerations.

The chief executive enunciated this position to reporters yesterday, underlining the urgency of preparedness by telling them that refugee-choked roads in France were being swept by the machine guns of swooping enemy warplanes.

Press Army Bill

On Capitol Hill, the senate pressed toward a vote on the record-breaking peacetime army bill of $1,820,841,000. The measure embodies all appropriations recommended by Mr. Roosevelt for the land forces in his special defense message a week ago.

After another day of intensified activities on most governmental fronts, President Roosevelt reviewed crystallizing defense problems at his press conference yesterday.

"Two Good Rules" There were two good rules to pursue, he said, in the work to be done.

First, he said, he did not want to see a single millionaire created out of the world's misfortune. He coupled this expression with the statement that he approved of industry's making a reasonable profit.

Turning to labor, he said it should not—and he was confident that it would not—attempt to take advantage of the conditions in demand.

Sanford Robb, 90, Marks Birthday; Builds New Fence

Sanford Robb, "90 years young," celebrated his birthday Tuesday by building a fence on a farm he owns just north of town.

Although just 10 years away from the century mark, Robb isn't afraid of a little work. In fact, he likes it. It gives him something to do, he says.

Sanford lives with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Perry J. Robb, at 629 E. Fifth st. He likes to sit in a chair in an enclosed front porch and watch the children go to and from the nearby Fourth Street school.

Most of the "kids" wave to him as they pass by—that is, when he's at home.

Neighbors sent him birthday cards yesterday and a bouquet of flowers. But in the afternoon he "ducked out" on any possible visitors and went to his farm. While many persons were complaining of the heat, he was busy constructing a fence.

At 90, Robb enjoys good health. The only indication of his advanced years is the fact that his hearing isn't quite as good as it was once.

He still drives his own automobile. And neighbors spotted him recently playing ball in the yard with his grand children.

Robb, a retired farmer, has lived in Salem for many years.

A truck driver whose vehicle crashed into a school bus on Route 224, one-half mile east of Berlin Center, at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, was fined $5 and costs in Justice D. W. Pettit's court at Berlin Center after state highway patrolmen preferred a charge of reckless driving.

U. S. 'Talent Scouts' Hunting Recruits In 5th Corps Area

COLUMBUS, May 22.—Uncle Sam's talent scouts went into the pool rooms, post offices and other hangouts of young men today in search of candidates for the army.

Uniformed recruiting officers will try to "sell" the army to eligible men, aged 18 to 35, in a campaign of the fifth corps area to enlist 1,312 new soldiers by June 30.

Spurred by the thunder of European war and President Roosevelt's demand for more defenses, the army is adding 15,000 men to bring its strength up to 242,000.

Activities of the fifth corps area in this largest peacetime recruiting campaign, which just opened yesterday, cover four states: Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia.

Use of newspapers, billboards, the radio and motion pictures on an unprecedented scale is involved.

London Told of New Successes By Royal Air Force

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 22.—British hopes of stemming the German march to the sea and the vital channel ports rose today with reports of new air force successes and the slowing down of the intensive German mechanized drive.

The nation was cheered by these reported developments: The French capture of Arras.

YOUNG AVIATOR DIES IN CRASH

E. Liverpool Man Killed As Plane Comes Down On Highway

J. Richard Coleman, 26, East Liverpool aviator, was fatally injured when his plane nose-dived and crashed on Route 267, one mile south of Route 30, at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Coleman was about 1,000 feet from Swaney airport, where he was going to land, when something apparently went wrong with the plane and it crashed, hitting the berm of the highway.

Companions at the airport heard, but did not witness the crash. They rushed over and extricated the pilot from the wreckage. He was taken to the East Liverpool City hospital by Charles K. Boyd, owner of the plane. He died an hour later.

He had suffered a skull fracture, compound fractures of both legs, one arm and internal injuries. He never regained consciousness.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman of East Liverpool. Mr. Coleman is the East Liverpool municipal court clerk and Republican nominee for Columbiana county clerk of courts. At one time the victim worked at the Mullins plant here.

Mrs. Harry Wilson of Salem is a sister.

State Patrolman James White of Salem was called when the wreckage of the plane partially blocked the highway.

The funeral service will be held at 9 a. m. Friday in St. Aloysius Catholic church in East Liverpool, followed by interment in St. Patrick's church cemetery at Salineville.

Hearing Is Set

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 22.—Municipal Judge Frank E. Grossman today set May 29 as arraignment day for Howard C. Henry, former city engineer, and Robert T. Meister of Woelbling, Va., who were freed on $1,000 bond each after they were charged with certifying a fraudulent bill for $650 to the city.

ENGLISH WEALTH, LABOR PLACED AT GOVERNMENT USE

FRENCH BATTLE AT ABBEVILLE

General Weygand Confident "If Each Man Does His Duty"

(By Associated Press) PARIS, May 22.—The French announced today that German advance guards had been driven from Abbeville, vital town at the mouth of the Somme river, 12 miles from the English channel, as they launched a fierce counter attack to relieve German pressure on the Allied forces threatened with isolation in the big Nazi push.

French forces, spurred on by the confident words of Gen. Maxime Weygand, the new Allied land general, reported today they had pushed German motorcyclists out of Arras and fought them at Abbeville station in a dogged attempt to block the relentless Nazi drive towards the sea.

Weygand Confident General Weygand, returning from the front, told Premier Reynaud: "I am full of confidence if each man does his duty with a fierce energy."

The French, in their fierce counter-attack to relieve pressure on the Allied forces threatened with isolation in the German push, destroyed all bridges across the Somme river, and a military spokesman said the enemy would have to bring up much heavier forces than they seem to have if they intended to cross that stream, roughly 70 miles north of Paris.

It was the failure of the French to destroy the River Meuse bridges, Premier Reynaud said yesterday, which permitted the Germans to advance so rapidly into France.

Premier Reynaud, after his gloomy speech of yesterday, declared today that if France can hold out for one month she will be "three quarters of the way to victory." And France will hold out, he added.

The Germans asserted yesterday they had seized Abbeville, Arras and Amiens in their drive to control the important English channel.

ROUMANIA FEARS SOVIET ATTACK

General Mobilization Is Ordered As Russians Crowd Border

BUCHAREST, May 22.—Roumania ordered a virtual general mobilization today in a move which diplomats believed was linked with Bucharest's fears that Soviet Russia's big army may soon march into Bessarabia.

The general staff called 300,000 reservists to the colors within the next 24 hours, bringing the army to what the staff called "the highest state of preparedness."

Reports to military headquarters here said that Soviet troop concentrations on Roumania's frontier had been heavily reinforced within the last few days.

City Electrician To Retire June 1

City Electrician, Lee Saunders, a veteran municipal employee, expects to retire on pension about June 1. He will be 65 on Aug. 31.

Saunders, who has worked for the city for approximately 32 years, 27 as city electrician, has applied for pension.

The civil service commission today announced it would hold an examination at 7:30 p. m. Friday, June 7, at city hall for applicants for the job.

Applications must be filed not later than Tuesday, June 4, with Roy Harris, commission clerk. The age limits for applicants are 21 to 40 years. The job will pay $135 a month.

Saunders, who is probably more familiar with the city's street lighting system than any other man, started working for the city in 1908 while an electrician for the old Y. & O. railroad. The job of city electrician was created in 1913 and Saunders has held it ever since.

Campaign On Dogs On In Full Swing

The police department's campaign against stray dogs was in full swing today as warrants were sworn out for the arrest of owners of animals held in the dog pound.

Eight dogs were seized yesterday by police. One cat was shot.

Mayor Norman Phillips has appealed to dog owners to keep their animals tied or in a pen at their homes.

Sale of U. S. War Planes Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 22.—By a vote of 12 to 1, the senate foreign relations committee shelved today a proposal that the United States sell army and navy planes to the Allies.

Only Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), the author, voted for the proposal.

Nazis Bracing For Expected Counter Drive

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, May 22.—Two curving prongs of the German army ripped northwest toward the bottleneck of the English channel and south to within some 50 miles of Paris today.

But while Nazi bombers showered down death from channel seaports to interior battlefronts, the main German army in northern France braced itself for a hard counter-attack by the Allied armies now under the supreme command of Gen. Maxime Weygand.

"It may be that our present movements will come to a temporary halt", General Walther Von Reichenau, German commander in the field, acknowledged. "Weygand has ordered every man to stand his ground. That may mean hard fights ahead."

Holding between 500,000 to 1,000,000 allied troops in what they call a huge sack in northern France and Belgium, the main German forces now are making their major job the systematic destruction of these divisions.

The northwestward prong of the armored advance forces, after brushing by Abbeville, on the Picardy coast 12 miles from the channel, drove on today toward the port of Boulogne on the shoulder of the narrowest part of the channel, while the air force punished this and other ports where British forces might embark for home.

COMFORT, SERVICE ARE STRESSED IN Good Advertising

General phases of advertising were discussed by John C. Costello, advertising manager of the Ohio Edison Co. in Akron, in an address before members of the Salem Rotary club at their meeting at the Menorah building Tuesday noon.

Costello pointed out that every good advertisement must attract attention, interest and desire and produce action.

Costello declared that because people are interested mainly in what an article will do in the way of comfort, convenience and time-saving rather than in its construction, an advertisement must be sold on the basis of its value and service to the public.

The Akron advertising executive discussed the present trend in advertising, citing the use of cartoons and large pictures with small captions to attract reader interest. This trend has been influenced, he said, by a national survey showing that people remember cartoons and pictures more than anything else.

He explained, however, that even with the use of pictures or cartoons an advertisement still must do a selling job or it will not justify itself.

STRANGE CASE OF COL. LINDBERGH

Speaking 13 years after the deed that made him famous, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, son of a Minnesota congressman vilified for opposing United States participation in the World war, picks up the torch his father relinquished and brandishes it aloft. This country, he says, is in no danger of invasion if it minds its own business and keeps its powder dry.

Hard as it is to explain, Col. Lindbergh ceased some time ago to be a popular hero and became, instead, the son of his relatively unknown father who lacked both fame and radio to disseminate his usually unorthodox opinions. If the critical wolves howl true to form, they will tear the colonel to pieces for saying the United States is in no danger of invasion. They will go even further and suspect his patriotism as they suspected his father's. Sic transit gloria.

EVENTUALLY, WHY NOT NOW?

A preparedness budget of more than $3,000,000,000, probably to be increased later, poses a special question for congress.

It can lift the national debt limit and add the expense of armament to the government's deferred obligations, or it can perform without delay the eventual necessity of increasing the government's income by taxation.

No doubt the odds must be quoted against immediate steps to increase taxes. Nevertheless, the stock argument that politicians never boost taxes in an election year no longer can be used. This is only incidentally an election year. Primarily, it is a spending for preparedness year. Prudent fiscal policy is as integral a part of preparedness as accumulation of the implements of war and the training of men. The dictates of prudence cannot long be disregarded when sums of such magnitude are involved. The embarrassing question of what would become of deficit spending in case of war has sat down in the lap of every patriot in congress. It can't be treated like an orphan child much longer.

HEADACHES TO COME

As the proportions of this nation's defense program become clearer—President Roosevelt's quo'a of 50,000 airplanes is a gauge—some idea may be gained in advance of the headaches to come when the new war finally ends in the exhaustion of the actual belligerents.

It is reasonable to suppose that one week's operation of mechanized warfare consumes as much wealth as Napoleon's armies used in a year. Even the World war's daily expenditure of energy must have been insignificant by contrast with the resources used in mechanized attack.

Attacks on the principles of orthodox economics never have denied the fact that resources used in war, being channeled directly to the sole purpose of destruction, are irrevocably lost. A bursting bomb, an exploding shell, a wrecked airplane and a soldier blown to bits all are outright economic waste, justifiable only on the one side as defense, on the other by hope of winning a fruitful victory by expenditure of wealth.

The expense of the World war proved so vast that after a few despairing attempts nothing further was done toward paying for it. It was marked off as dead loss, chargeable to experience. More billions now are being added to the item, chargeable, if to anything, to failure to learn anything from experience.

THE WARRIOR'S DILEMMA

Return of Gen. Maxime Weygand to France to become generalissimo of the Allied armies in place of Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin is far from being an isolated incident of the war.

It is, rather, a sign of uncertainty over solution of the vital problem of war—a problem which the Allies must solve on pain of extinction, a problem with which the United States is beginning to grapple. After the World war, supposedly profiting from the experience it provided, many militarists abandoned attack as the first requisite of defense. Attack, they believed, had become so costly no nation could afford it. Against the kind of defense that engineering skill could provide beforehand, the strongest of defensive simply would wear itself out. Hence the Maginot line, which was to prevent forever occupation of the soil of France by its traditional enemy west of the Rhine. France and Great Britain, too, were to find security in defense.

This was a radical departure in military thought. It grew out of actual experience, however, and therefore seemed sound. The World war, which had started out as a war of movement and ended as a war of position, seemingly clinched the case for position. As commander in chief, until his retirement in 1935, Gen. Weygand was in charge of the defensive preparations later brought to completion by his successor, Gen. Gamelin. Then, in the space of a few days, German invaders again were on French soil, and the Allies again, were fighting with their backs to the wall. The Maginot line had been both flanked and breached and it was the same old thing over again.

Presumably, recall of Gen. Weygand from his post-retirement command in Syria means France will revert to attack, insofar as attack may be possible. As the disciple of Gen. Foch, he is France's symbol of the strategy of offense. Gen. Gamelin, disciple of Joffre, is a symbol of the strategy of defense. Americans may reflect that the same problem faced by France, may one day be theirs to solve.

Dentists, of course, can stick to funny stories, or if they really want to comfort their patients, they can tell them about the riceratops dinosaur, which had 500 teeth, all aching.

For Thursday, May 23.

Swift-stirring events, with things moving under excitement and high tempo, are forecast from this day's astral operations. Probably new ventures of major importance, requiring not only much skill and practical creative ability but as well as fine initiative and enterprise are to the fore. These may be sure of attracting the generous support of those in position and authority to promote and give all needed means for launching and expanding. But in all transactions leave no loophole for craft, duplicity or hazardous entanglements.

Those whose birthday it is are justified in anticipating a year of definite progress and expansion in new directions, with every prospect of important propositions and projects of a practical nature meeting the approval and financing backing of influential personages. Bold initiative and sound constructive ability will be supported and generously, but in all dealings be wary as to treachery, fraud or subtle entanglements, even in high places.

A child born on this day should have much practical talent and creative ability as well as high ambitions. Its enthusiasm, generous and expansive nature, will win it success and much personal popularity with important persons.

Having retired at the age of 11, we've been wondering if Shirley Temple will spend her time now writing her memoirs—or, maybe she'll write a column, following in the footsteps of other dopesters.

Curing Bad Posture Means Starting Very Early In Life

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT CAN be done to train posture during infancy?

The beginnings of bad posture are laid during very early life. Always hold a baby so that its back is supported. A cramped position may start to make the back crooked. Round shoulders may begin by clothes that pull on the neck and shoulders.

Example is the best teacher. Babies are great imitators. When they begin to walk, if the mother or father is stooped or round-shouldered, they will tend to be the same. Once or twice a day, in the formative period when the baby is from eighteen months to two years old, stand him up against the wall.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

the mother on the wall around the corner where she can be seen. The mother throws her chest out, and her shoulders back. The baby will try to do the same thing.

Poor posture may be due to trouble with the feet or legs, causing a tilt to the pelvis, and hence a curved position for the spine. Bow-legs and knock-knees should be treated on advice from the doctor. Don't let them run on. All babies' legs are bowed at first, but when they begin to crawl and walk they straighten up. Rickets may cause bow-legs; hence a regulation of the diet helps posture.

Strong muscles and strong bones are the best guarantees of good posture. Exercise of all the muscles and joints should be carried out systematically. With the baby in bed, move the legs—knees, hips and ankles. Lift him up by his fingers. Put him on his face and raise his legs so that the back is moved in all directions. He will think it is great fun.

What is the treatment of fallen stomach?

Spin a Wheel, Press Button
New Goliath Produces Dishes

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 22—Deep in the sub-basement of the Homer Laughlin China Co.'s plant is a small group of men, working in a small air-conditioned room.

They do not do much—turn a wheel here, press a button there or watch gauges—but they are operating the pottery industry's newest Goliath, a machine whose three units are capable, its designers say, of fabricating 8000 dozen pieces of ware a day, or 22 pieces per minute on any one of the six tools.

Others in the little group are weighing lumps of clay and making other tests and records, writing the early history of a new industrial development and gauging for future operations the performance of the machine.

It is the new automatic jigger, which, company officials announced today, now is in actual production after running experimentally for six months.

As it stands now, the fabricating unit represents perhaps the first completely successful automatic jigger after more than 120 years of experimentation here and abroad. It has a production capacity almost double that of many smaller whole plants in the industry.

Built Own Machine

One of the rare features of the machine as an industrial development is that it was created, designed and built by and within the company in which it will be used, and not by manufacturers or designers of industrial machinery. The pottery industry, even on a national scale, has been too small up to now for machinery manufacturers to invest large sums in the development of new pottery machinery which would have a limited market.

The automatic jigger was designed and built in the plant machine shop under the direction of Walter H. Emerson, Homer Laughlin's industrial engineer for the last six years.

Preliminary designing and a working model were begun five years ago. In 1937, cloaked in secrecy, the building of the vast and complicated machinery was started. Almost all parts had to be built new; there were very few castings or parts available in the market which could be adapted to anything so new and radically different.

Complicated Machine
The automatic jigger, while it occupies a comparatively small portion of the largest pottery factory in America, is a vast and extremely complicated machine. Many have seen the top of the 70-foot-high drier above the roof of No. 6, but this is only a small portion of the whole.

And yet, in add this spread of equipment, clay is handled entirely by machinery from the time it leaves the mixers until it is taken off an endless chain of molds in the form of "green" ware, ready for the finishers and first firing.

One of the biggest handicaps in the development of an automatic jiggering machine has been the working out of suitable clay feeding to get even distribution of a uniform body.

This is handled in the Laughlin machine by extrusion of clay into the jigger.

SPEED WINS IN A RACE, BUT SLOW BURNING WINS MY VOTE IN A CIGARETTE. I SMOKE CAMELS. CAMELS ARE EXTRA MILD, EXTRA COOL—AND THEIR SLOWER BURNING GIVES ME EXTRA SMOKING

JIMMIE KELLY, Daring Speed As of Motor-Cycle Racing

YES, speed's fine in its place, but in cigarettes, millions have learned that the big extras in pleasure and value are on the slow side. . . . the slow-burning side. Naturally, the slower your cigarette burns, the cooler the smoking. . . . the more mildness and flavor you get.

Camels. . . made from costlier tobaccos. . . are definitely slower-burning. They give you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor—and extra smoking per cigarette per pack (see below).

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to Attack Rail Station It was these troops who today attacked the railway station at Abbeville, 12 miles from the channel, on the Somme estuary. Arras is approximately 60 miles from the vital channel port of Calais, gateway to England. Amiens, 35 miles southeast of Arras and about 50 miles from the channel, apparently still was in German hands. Announcement of the recapture of Arras came shortly after General Weygand had departed for the front in an attempt to rally his troops and turn impending disaster into victory. The news heartened the civilian population of Paris, many of whom already were streaming out of the capital to seek safety in the south.

WASHINGTON, May 22. — New precautions against espionage and any "fifth column" activity in the United States were added today to the general scope of the national defense program. The major recommendation originated with President Roosevelt, who disclosed he was planning to give the justice department supervision over immigration as a safeguard against alien spies and saboteurs. Immigration control now rests with the labor department, but Mr. Roosevelt said he would make the transfer in a government reorganization order.

Plan Unusual Vacation Trips

Dorothy Martin

Elizabeth Starr

COLUMBIANA, May 22.—Two Columbiana High school teachers, Misses Dorothy Martin and Elizabeth Starr, plan unusual vacation trips this summer.

Miss Martin will join Canadian and American youth hostellers in Mexico City to help build the first youth hostel in Mexico. Miss Starr will go by bicycle and train through Chile, Argentina, Bolivia and Peru with a "pioneer" group, the first to make such a trip.

Like others in their groups, Miss Starr and Miss Martin will be pass-holders in the American Youth Hostels, which opens its first Ohio loop this summer under sponsorship of the Buckeye district committee of Columbus. Both groups hope to arouse enough interest among Mexican and South American educators and youth organization leaders to result in the establishment of youth hostels in Latin American countries, similar to those in Europe. Both Miss Starr and Miss Martin have enjoyed bicycle trips through many European countries in previous years.

Miss Martin's group in Mexico City will build simple bunks and furniture, sew curtains, paint, garden and do plumbing. The hostel is to be located in Villa Vallejo, on the outskirts of the city. Evenings will be spent in discussion and singing with Hosteler groups cycling in Mexico for the summer.

Miss Starr's group will sleep overnight in South American inns, farms, monasteries and convents. After landing at Valparaiso, part of the hostellers will cycle 10 days up the Chilean valley, while others ski in the Andes. After going by train to Buenos Aires, the entire group will cycle across the Pampas into the Argentine Andes.

At Tacuman they will take a train to La Paz, Bolivia, and by boat cross Lake Titicaca, highest navigable fresh-water lake in the world, to Peru. After viewing the Inca ruins at Cuzco, they will go by train and bicycle to the coast at Lima. They embark for the return voyage at Callao.

The Mexican working party will take weekend bicycle trips into the country, viewing many historical scenes.

An asphalt and slag top dressing is to be applied to N. and S. Lincoln aves., W. State st., down town E. Pershing st., and Newgarden ave., at an expenditure of at least $6,000.

Contract for the job was awarded by city officials a week ago to the Wayne C. Neff Co. of Warren, whose bid was 13½ cents a gallon for asphalt emulsion and $1.25 a ton for slag.

The job is expected to take at least 30,000 gallons of asphalt and 920 tons of slag.

Check Water Pressure

A letter was received by council from the Salem Manufacturers' association, urging that council check on water pressure at the plant of the Martin Custom Made Tire Co. The firm is threatened with an increase in fire insurance rates unless the water pressure is boosted.

J. M. Kelley, a member of the park commission, told council that it was still impossible to get into the West End playlot site to do any work because the ground is too wet and muddy. He said work was being rushed to get the Centennial park diamonds in shape for the opening of the baseball season, already a week late.

Requests were received from residents of Cleveland st., east of Brooklyn ave., for a sanitary sewer as well as a street light in their neighborhood.

He added that the government in no way proposed to weaken the social legislation of the last several years. Would Remove Air Corps Limit

The house military committee unanimously approved a bill to abolish the "ceiling" on the army air corps' strength. The army had asked that the present legal limit of 6,000 be increased to 10,000, but the committee discarded any restriction.

Measures were introduced simultaneously in both houses to authorize a force of 10,000 planes, manned by 16,000 pilots.

Additional shifts were ordered to work in all the navy's shipyards to speed warship building.

Protests against "fifth column sabotage" likewise were written into a pending bill, permitting the navy to oust civilian workers suspected of subversive activity or intent, no matter what their civil service status.

Among numerous defense requests to congress was one from senate and house naval committees seeking authorization for 20 naval air bases ringing the United States.

CHAPTER XXXII

Zara led the way into a room crowded with many dusty and battered-looking mummy cases. "Are they not interesting?" Mrs. Ladd demanded. "So cheerful, too. Some seem to smile at you, see?"

Although her conception was a novel one, North nodded then said, "This one's different—you couldn't say she's smiling?"

At the end of the row he had paused. Though of great age, the mummy was contorted in lines suggestive of greatest agony. Lord! How dreadfully its fingers were curved and its legs twisted.

"In several ways Ione is the most fascinating of our mummies," Zara observed in her rich, low-pitched voice.

But poor Ione is different from the rest," Lolita protested. "She doesn't look like an Egyptian mummy."

"That is so," Mrs. Ladd admitted. "Larkin really should not have Ione here. She was an unfortunate Greek lady who died during the Byzantine domination. Embalming being against Christian doctrine in the thirteenth century, became a lost art. My husband was puzzled but he concluded this poor creature had been buried alive—Is it not appalling to think of returning to life only to perish a second time? A truly dreadful death!" she commented.

Mrs. Ladd remained viewing the wooden coffin, until her husband returned, profuse in his apologies. Moving to the dining room, they had a modest repast of cheese and beer.

Shortly afterward the party broke up and Captain North sought his room. Sitting on the edge of the bed, he commenced to ruminate.

"Moira appears definitely to be playing an intricate double game. But is she on the level with the C. I. D.? Let's see. I found her in Hasid's house with a gun in her hand. Therefore, it doesn't seem as if she were a pal of our Egyptian friend. Um! Suppose, just for fun, Hasid was Mr. Armstrong?" The more he thought of it, the more he wondered. Hasid was undoubtedly deep in this game.

"Suppose, my boy, our suave Egyptian was the friend Natika Black had wanted me to meet?" Or was it Philipides, with whom she was so friendly on the boat? Softly North snapped his fingers. Was this the right train of thought?

Only one thing was sure—the garter was not Natika's—the powder analysis had proved that. Therefore, it seemed logical to assume that the murdered girl had been working against Armstrong's interests. How else to account for that garb?

And the matter of the scarab, properly interpreted, should lead to some valuable pointers, yet somehow he was too sleepy to perceive them.

Characteristically, the man from G-2 goaded his stumbling imagination. At last he found an answer which he tested from every possible angle. Only then did he get up, smiling a slow, hard smile, and went to the window.

Somewhere a clock intoned midnight, spreading a ripple of sound in the stillness, gripping Lawrence College. Bruce. Was the poor devil still alive? Could he be rescued?

Immeasurably refreshed by a sound night's sleep, North felt almost eager to resume the murky struggle upon which he had entered. Breakfast was a cheery affair.

"I'm afraid we're hopelessly lazy-bones, Captain," Lolita greeted, very fresh and crisp in a blue cotton dress. "Dad, Zara and most of the staff have been up for hours. I don't know where Moira is. She came out quite late—bet she didn't want to pass up some party in town."

So Moira had arrived, after all! He found himself suddenly eager to see her. Soon he and the blonde Lolita went out into the morning sunlight. He suppressed a little start of surprise to note that Lolita's eyes looked somewhat puffy and red, as if she had wept the night before. Now, however, she seemed to be in the best of spirits.

She led the way into a cheerful, well-lit room where filling cabinets and typewriters stood about in ordered rows. One wall was occupied by a huge, large-scale map of lower Egypt which North surveyed. He turned with a smile. "What are the pins for?"

"Some show where Dad is conducting research; some show where the students come from."

He ran his eyes over the map: Ismailiyeh, Port Said, Damietta, Gaza, Haifa, Jaffa, Candia, Hebron, Larnaka and Rhodes were all indicated. Aside from these were such logical localities as Alexandria, Beirut, Jerusalem and Istanbul. What interested him particularly was the almost complete dearth of students hailing from the Near East's hinterlands. When he commented on this Lolita shrugged.

"I suppose maritime peoples are quicker and more eager to learn."

Just then Hart came in. "Good morning, Captain. Doctor Ladd is occupied but Mrs. Ladd is ready to show you anything you'd like to see. She is waiting in the garden. Perhaps you'd show Captain North the way, Miss Ladd?"

Talking and laughing together were Zara Ladd and Moira McLeod, the latter very smart in a tailored suit of gray flannel over the shoulders of which her page boy's bob rippled.

"Ah, Captain," Zara called. "We've got her at last—the bad girl. She should really have been given no breakfast. You have met before, Moira was saying."

"And how are you today, my bold brave Captain?" hailed Moira.

"The better for resting these eyes on the sweet likeness of you," he countered cheerfully, at the same time noting tired lines at the corners of her mouth and eyes.

The morning passed quickly enough, but he found much food for thought. Moira still did not appear and Moira was distinctly elusive. When he inquired about Stag point-blank, she merely shrugged.

"Don't ask about it now," she begged in an undertone, "and besides, I don't know anything. But here's one thing—make an excuse to get back to town before long. Last night I learned something very important to both of us. Where can I reach you? Your room at the Hotel du Nil?"

"No, I'll be in the cafe."

After thanking their hosts, Captain North and Moira were driven into Cairo by Hart around four in the afternoon.

The man from G-2 had hardly seated himself in the cafe when Moira rang up.

"Pack an overnight bag," she directed in low, quick accents. "Take the eight-twelve downriver. You'll find me in the second compartment of the third coach from the engine. We'll have it to ourselves. There's a lot I have to tell you."

Presently he quitted the cafe and sought the lavatory to remove a layer or two of yellow Egyptian dust. As he left it, a knife, swift as a flash of light, hissed past his nose to plunge its blade three inches deep in the door's wooden frame.

Wheeling, he caught only a glimpse of a shadow fleeing down an apparently interminable corridor. Soon he saw the steel blade which had so narrowly missed him. It was of Arabic design and of expensive make. Wrenching the weapon free, he dropped it into his pocket.

Eight o'clock found Captain North striding down the platform of the Gare Point Limoun. Very much on the qui vive he swung down the platform until he beheld Moira's anxious face above him. She beckoned frantically until he hoisted himself up into the compartment.

Here is one of the first pictures to reach the United States of German troops in Brussels, the Belgium capital. The troops are mounted on bicycles. The Belgium government has moved to Ostend, on the coast.

A grimace briefly distorted North's pleasant brown features. "I shouldn't mention the lug, because it reminds me that you're the one girl he ever had I really begrudged him."

NELSON TAKES LEAD IN OPEN

Toledo Pro Clips Four Strokes Off Par Figures

TOLEDO, May 22—An exhibition of blistering sub-par golf put National Open champion Byron Nelson in the driver's seat as the Ohio Open tournament went into the final day.

The Toledo Inverness pro, competing in his first Buckeye open, topped the picturesque Sylvania Country club layout in 71-69 yesterday to clip four strokes off the regulation 36-hole figures.

Nelson's score gave him a three-stroke lead over his nearest rivals as the 20th annual tournament went into the final 36 holes.

Billy Burke of Cleveland, defending champion; Tony Joy, youthful Youngstown pro, and Tony Penna, swarthy Dayton veteran, carded 143.

Phil Perkins of Cleveland, former British amateur champion, shot the day's best round—a 67 in the morning—but slipped to a 77 on his second try to take fifth place.

Marshall Carlson, Ohio intercollegiate champion, and Jim Lewis, both of Toledo, carded the best amateur scores, each taking 150.

The scores for the first 36 holes included: Abe Forbich of Fremont 83-83—166, and Charles Stamm of Sandusky 87-85—172.

Columbia, Reilly Meet In Playoff

Softball teams from Columbia and Reilly schools will meet Saturday morning in the first game of a playoff for the Mickey McGuire league championship.

The two teams finished their league schedules yesterday with similar records of four wins and one defeat.

Columbia won its final game against St. Paul by the lop-sided score of 27 to 1 while Reilly nosed out Fourth Street, 5 to 4.

FOXX SETTING PITCHERS WILD WITH SLUGGING

Red Sox Veteran Cleans Bases For 2nd Time With Home Run

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Maybe it's nostalgia creeping up, but a fellow can't escape feeling every once in awhile that the old heroes are the best.

There's Jimmie Foxx of the Boston Red Sox. In the 15 years he has been swashbuckling around the American league, a lot of fine new faces have appeared and a lot of them have passed right on out.

But old "Double X" still is setting the opposing pitchers crazy with his terrific slugging. He hit a home run with the bases loaded yesterday for the second straight day to help Boston beat the Detroit Tigers 11-8 and get a stronger grip on first place in the junior circuit.

He has hit 11 homers and batted in 36 runs already this spring to set a spectacular pace for the American league.

The World Champion New York Yankees took some of the pressure off Boston by belting the Cleveland Indians 10-2 with a 12-hit attack, led by George Selkirk and Charley Keller.

Still In Cellar

The victory was not sufficient to get the Yanks out of the cellar, however, because the Chicago White Sox edged out the Washington Senators 9-8. Joe Kubel led the Sox's 15-hit assault with five hits including a home run and two doubles.

These were the only completed games in the American league.

In the only contest the weather allowed in the National league the Brooklyn Dodgers squeezed past the Chicago Cubs 4-3 to end a three-game losing streak.

The Cubs scored three runs in the second and third innings on homers by Bill Nicholson and Jimmy Gleason, and Claude Passeau shut out the Dodgers on two hits for five innings. Brooklyn scored twice in the sixth. Then Passeau loaded the bases in the ninth and Dolph Campt rapped out a single.

The boys had to do then was touch all the bases.

SALEM NETTERS ATTEND CLINIC

Coach and Six Members Of Team See Don Budge Play

Accompanied by their coach, Loren D. Early, six members of the Salem High school tennis team attended a tennis clinic at Geneva college in Grove City, Pa., yesterday.

The Salem team was represented by Capt. Lee Willman, George Baillie, Bob Ritchie, Carl Capel, Wayne Laughlin and Gale Stewart.

Feature of the clinic was the appearance of Don Budge, world champion, who lectured on the game before giving exhibitions against George Pryor of Pittsburgh and other outstanding players of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio.

The clinic opened with a period of individual instruction on various types of play, demonstrated by 25 leading players on 10 courts.

A welcoming address by Dr. Weir C. Ketter, president of the college, followed the instruction period.

Tommy Leslie Leads 8-D To Junior High Track Title

Two-Man 8-E Team Trais Winner by One-Half Point In Meet At Reilly Stadium

Future stars of Salem High school track and field teams displayed their talents at Reilly stadium yesterday as seventh and eighth grade athletes, coached by Robert Carey, battled in the annual Junior High meet, won by 8-D by the narrow margin of one-half a point.

The 8-D team scored 31½ points to win the Junior High track championship, nosing out 8-E athletes who tallied 31 points to finish second.

Third place was captured by the 8-F team which scored 28 points, while other teams finished in the following order: 8-B, 17; 8-C, 16; 7-C, 13½; 7-D, 10½; 8-A, 10; 7-B, 8; 7-E, 5; 7-A, 4; 7-A, 1½.

Tommy Leslie won two events and tied for first in another to pace 8-D to the championship. Leslie captured first place in the 50-yard dash and the discus and tied for first in the pole vault to score 17 of his team's 31½ points.

The second-place 8-E room presented a "two-man team" of Carmen Nocera and Frank Entriaken, who scored 29 points between them.

Nocera was the individual star of the meet, scoring 18 points by winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the broad jump.

The outcome of the meet was not decided until the final event, the high jump, was completed. Gerald Bingham of 8-D tied with Charles Dunlap of 8-C in the high jump to give his team the points needed to win the championship.

ADA, May 22—Athletic Director Clyde Lam said today curtailed funds and lack of interest prompted a decision to discontinue varsity baseball at Ohio Northern university after this season.

Betting Man Gets Break As Randall Race Track Opens

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, May 22—John Doe gets a break at the running races starting today at North Randall track.

Grandstand admission has been cut to 25 cents and dime bets may be placed.

This "poor man's show" policy is an about-face from last year's inauguration of runners as a "sport of kings" at the historic harness racing track.

Then admission was $1. Crowds were small and soon the house was "papered" with passes. The management has high hopes for this year, even looking to a return engagement in the fall.

GIANTS SHOOT AT REDS' LEAD

Cincinnati Holds 1-Game Edge In National League Race

NEW YORK, May 22—The pace-setting Reds faced the Giants today with some of the confidence befitting the league leaders, but still a bit shaky from a 13 to 4 beating in their last brush with Boston.

Paul Derringer, who allowed the phantom Phils to drive him from the mound last Saturday but has won three games and in one game gave the Cardinals only four hits, or Whitney Moore were to face Giant sluggers.

Carl Hubbell was called to stop the Reds who took three straight on the New Yorkers' first western invasion.

Optimism Seen

Causes for optimism in the Reds' camp were (1) that they were still a full game ahead of the pursuing Dodgers and (2) that Moore bids fair to become Manager Bill McKechnie's fourth starting pitcher in a manner gratifying to the Rhinelanders.

Moore's record shows only one victory and no losses this season but his relief hurling has pleased the Deacon.

Brooklyn's defeat of Chicago yesterday allowed the Dodgers to move up a half length as rain forced the Reds to remain idle in a game scheduled with Boston.

HEAVY SHELLING FEATURES LOOP

Mid-Atlantic Teams Hit Hard In Tuesday Contests

PORTSMOUTH, May 22—The shelling was heavy on the Mid-Atlantic league from last night as batsmen got the range.

The Dayton Wings smashed out 22 hits to defeat Portsmouth, 16 to 3, as three Red Bird pitchers vainly tried to stop them. Four home runs, two of them contributed by Third Baseman Bill McWilliams, helped fatten the Wings' score.

The Akron Yankees connected for 18 hits off two Canton hurlers as they beat the Terriers, 13 to 0. The Terriers got eight scattered hits.

Youngstown trounced Charleston, 14 to 9, in the seven-inning first game of a double-header, but lost the nightcap, 6 to 8. Three Youngstown pitchers gave 14 bases on balls and hit one batter in the first game, but the team got 10 hits.

Johnny Sweet's home run run with one on in the eighth won the second game for Charleston.

OHIO ATHLETES VIE THIS WEEK IN STATE MEET

Few Records Expected To Fall In Track Competition

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, May 22. — Several new champions, but few new records, are expected to emerge Friday and Saturday from the state high school track-field, baseball, golf and tennis finals at Ohio State university's athletic plant.

A total of 2463 boys from 245 schools attacked the Ohio track and field records in district meets last weekend, but only one mark was broken and another tied. Big Bob Shaw, Fremont Ross' all-around athlete, almost tossed the shot off the property with a 53-foot 3½ inch heave to better the 52-2½ inch

Two Salem High school athletes, who qualified in the northeastern Ohio district meet here last Saturday, will compete in the state meet at Columbus Friday and Saturday.

Dick Beck will compete in the shot put, while Elliott Hansell will run in the 220-yard dash. They will be accompanied by Columbus by Coach Frederick E. Cope and Assistant Coach R. B. Clarke.

The other district meet marks, as a rule, were far off the state meet pace.

Champs Ousted

Pemberville and Canton McKinley, 1939 Class B and Class A baseball winners, respectively, were ousted in district play, tossing that competition wide open.

Pairings for the baseball contests will be made Thursday night, and the 12th annual diamond meet will start at 9 a. m. Friday. Entrants in the golf meet will play 18 holes at 1 p. m. Friday, and the second 18 at 9 a. m. Saturday. Pairings for the 21st state tennis finals will be made at noon Friday, with competition starting at 1 p. m. and continuing through Saturday.

Track-field activity starts at 3 p. m. Friday, when preliminaries are scheduled in the 100-yard dash, the 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, 440-yard dash and the 880-yard relay. Finals start at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, with five Class B and two Class A field events scheduled before noon, and all cinder competition booked for the afternoon. It will be the 33rd consecutive state track-field meet.

Perroni Trains

CANTON, May 22—Heavyweight Patsy Perroni started training today for a boxing match in Columbus next month with Buddy Walker. For this purpose, Judge T. H. Leahy released him from jail where he spent 12 days on a charge of nonsupport of his wife and child.

PUT CHEMISTRY PRODUCT IN USE

Lignin, Abundant Waste Product, Is Now Valuable

WASHINGTON—Agriculture Department scientists have discovered a practical method for converting lignin, one of the nation's most abundant waste products, into valuable industrial materials.

Lignin long has been chemistry's problem child. It composes one-fourth of the structure of all fibrous plants, including trees, corn cobs and wheat and corn stalks. Millions of dollars have been spent trying to convert it to industrial uses.

Scientists of the U. S. Forest Service's Forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., have discovered that by adding hydrogen to lignin they can convert this waste product of wood into five products that bear promise of being valuable raw materials with many uses.

Wood Alcohol Extracted

One is a well-known product—methanol, or wood alcohol. Four others had not been previously discovered. The properties of these new substances are such as to suggest their use as wood preservatives, fungicides, insecticides, adhesives, solvents and plastic materials.

The first of the four new substances, all of which are labeled by chemical formula, is valuable as a solvent for organic gums, resins and oils used in lacquers. It also is valuable as a preservative and as a repellent to insects.

The second and third substances are thick liquids which become solid after standing a long while. Both may be made into plastic materials for building purposes. The fourth, which also may be used as a plastic, is valuable as a cement or adhesive for wood, paper, metal and other materials.

As a by-product of paper and industrial cellulose mills about 1,500,000 dry-weight-tons of lignin are dumped into streams each year, making it a pollution and disposal problem as well as one of waste.

Cements Wood Cells

The cellulose, or wood cells, is used in making paper and rayon and is now the most important wood constituent from a chemical conversion standpoint. The cementing substance in and around the cells is lignin.

Because of its complex chemical nature, lignin in its natural form has baffled scientists. By submitting it to the hydrogenation process scientists changed its chemical nature so that it could be broken down into component parts.

The hydrogen atoms were added to a solution of purified lignin by means of heat, pressure and use of copper chromium oxide. Under this treatment the dirty, brown lignin solution was changed to a thick, sticky, colorless fluid. The copper chromium oxide was then removed by use of a centrifuge, which works on the principle of a cream separator. The residue then was distilled to create the wood alcohol and four new substances.
